Effective date of this notice: April 14, 2003

I. How CRC May Use or Disclose Your Health Information

CRC collects PHI from you and stores it in a chart and on a computer. This is your medical record. The medical record is the property of CRC, but the information in the medical record belongs to you. CRC protects the privacy of your PHI. CRC must obtain your written consent before it can disclose information about you for payment purposes. For example, CRC must obtain your written consent before it can disclose information to your health insurer in order to be paid for services.

Generally, you must sign a written consent before CRC can share information for treatment purposes or for health care operations. However, federal law permits CRC to use or disclose information without your written authorization for the following purposes:

1. Pursuant to agreement with a Qualified Service Organization/Business Associate. CRC provides a variety of comprehensive behavioral health treatment and service using a provider network of employed and contracted physicians and clinicians, as well as contracted specialty medical services ("Business Associates"). Medical treatment includes but is not limited to:
 - Routine Care (histories and physicals, screening exams, etc.);
 - Diagnostic treatment (x-rays, lab tests, etc.);
2. We may disclose your PHI to health agencies during the course of audits, investigations, evaluations, inspections, licensure, and other proceedings;
3. To report a crime committed on CRC's premises or against CRC personnel;
4. To medical personnel in a medical emergency;
5. To the appropriate authorities to report suspected child abuse or neglect;
6. As allowed by a court order.

II. When CRC May Not Use or Disclose Your Health Information

Except as described in this Notice of Privacy Practices, CRC will not use or disclose your PHI without your written authorization. The law requires that CRC obtain your authorization to use or disclose your PHI:

1. For marketing purposes or the sale of your PHI.
2. Related to your psychotherapy notes.
3. For fundraising communications sent to you.

III. Your Health Information Rights

1. You have the right to request restrictions on certain uses and disclosures of your PHI. However, CRC is not required to agree to the restriction that you requested.
2. You have the right to request and receive your PHI in an electronic format.
3. Upon written request, you have the right to receive your PHI through a reasonable alternative means or at an alternative location.
4. You have the right to inspect and request a copy of your PHI. You should take note that, if you are a parent or a legal guardian of a minor, certain portions of the minor's medical record will not be accessible to you.
5. You have a right to request that CRC amend your PHI that is incorrect or incomplete. CRC is not required to change your PHI and will provide you with information about the CRC denial process, and how you can disagree with the denial.
6. You have a right to receive an accounting of disclosures of your PHI made by CRC, except that CRC does not have to account for the disclosures provided to you, of section I of this Notice of Privacy Practices.
7. You have a right to a paper copy of this Notice of Privacy Practices.
8. You have the right to revoke your authorization to use or disclose PHI, except to the extent that action has already been taken based on a previous authorization.
9. You have the right to receive notice from CRC following a breach of your unsecured PHI.
10. You have the right to choose not to receive any fundraising communications from CRC.

11. You have the right to request that CRC restrict the disclosure of your PHI to health plans for services that you paid for fully at your own expense.

IV. Changes to this Notice of Privacy Practices

CRC Health Group reserves the right to amend this Notice of Privacy Practices at any time in the future, and to make the new provisions effective for all information that it maintains, including information that was created or received prior to the date of such amendment.
